Foreign Culture Coming to MBA in October

by Tom Springer, News Editor

Spanish Immersion Day

On Saturday, October 10, MBA will host the first annual Spanish Immersion day, an event created by the Nashville Task Force on Foreign Language Teaching. For a nominal fee of two dollars, students from all over Nashville can participate. Taught by area teachers, Vanderbilt faculty, graduate students, and special guests, the program is divided into three levels: Beginning (Spanish I&II), Intermediate (Spanish III), and Advanced (Spanish IV&V).

The theme of the day is Columbus' encounter in the Americas, but the forty minute sessions vary from cultural aspects of Spanish America and Spain (dance, music, geography, food, art) to Spanish language sessions in the computer lab using modern software. While the Intermediate Level highlights a study of the ancient Maya, the Advanced level, following a session on the life of Columbus himself, features a debate, in Spanish, on the controversy regarding Columbus' encounter. The highlight of the afternoon is an exhibit of Pre-Columbian artifacts discovered in Mexico and donated to the Parthenon.

Registration begins at 9:30; students are admitted on a first-come first-serve basis, with a 200 person limit. Lunch is provided at noon, and the program ends at 3:00 in the afternoon.

French Immersion Day

On Saturday, October 17, MBA will host the French Immersion Day, a.k.a. French Fair, from nine in the morning to nine at night. The aim of the Day, according to director Sue Fenton, is to increase student awareness of French culture outside France and in Nashville, and to give students information for pursuing French in higher education.

For a minimal registration fee of $2.00, students may choose three out of thirteen possible sessions, which include interactive events such as French Impressionist painting, mime, African dance, and a popular session on current French street slang. In addition, all students will spend one session in the big gymnasium, which will be transformed into a French village combining settings from numerous French speaking nations. With displays created in area schools, highlights of the Village include a twenty foot Eiffel Tower; a cafe serving authentic French beverage; twelve foot wide mural backdrops including the Alps, ocean views, and North African deserts; and much more.

From 7:30pm to 9:00pm, the small gym plays host to a Marti-Gras Ball featuring widescreen French music videos and a competitive float parade. Prize trophies will be given for the winners of the competition, and throughout the Day in the Village, authentic French trinkets will be sold. And what French outing would be complete without fine French cuisine? A famous chef will provide authentic French dining- reservations are necessary. Finally, every student will receive a packet including information regarding French related options in college and beyond.

Recycle MBA Needs Your Help

by Flagg Youngblood, President of Recycle MBA

A necessary word of thanks goes out to the MBA Father's Club for generously donating the money to purchase our durable, plastic recycling bins. Now with a permanent recycling bin for every room on campus, the fun may begin.

Recycle MBA needs the support of all students to make the program successful.

Also, the help of a good number students will be required to organize and collect the recyclables.

MBA 42, Warren Central 35, 2OT

The Big Red opened its season with the Dragons of Warren Central, traditionally one of the best teams in Kentucky. From the outset, the Big Red played well and built a 28-7 third quarter lead behind R.A. Dickey's touchdown pass to Trent Batey, two John Arendale touchdown runs, and another by Shannon Durrett. Then with only 3:28 left on the clock, disaster struck. The Dragons stormed back with two furious touchdown drives against the Big Red reserves, cutting the lead to 28-21. A successful onside kick and a Hail Mary touchdown pass by the Dragons sent the game into overtime.

The Dragons got the ball first in overtime and scored after three plays but M B A countered with a Durrett touchdown run to even the score at 35-35. The Big Red scored on another Durrett touchdown in the second overtime to take a 42-35 lead. A valiant goal line stand at the two yard line preserved the victory for the Big Red.

The following touchdown pass and a goal line stand by the defense late in the fourth quarter. In a game that year. Cleveland's big play rushing attack piled up over 200 yards in the first half establishing a 17-7 lead. MBA refused to die and played a strong third quarter defensively shutting down the Raider offense. The Big Red offense, however, could not get untracked, with turnovers and penalties stopping several drives. An interception return for a touchdown with five minutes left in the fourth quarter extended the Raider lead and put the game out of reach. The Big Red must now regroup and focus on district rival Pearl-Cohn. Support MBA this Friday as they look to go 2-0 in the district.
